AMERICAN BOARD OF VETERINARY PRACTITIONERS RESIDENCY VIRGINIA-MARYLAND COLLEGE OF VETERINARY MEDICINE, VIRGINIA TECH

The Community Practice at Virginia-Maryland College of Veterinary Medicine is excited to announce an opening for an ABVP resident beginning July of 2025. This is a 2-year residency program that provides experience working with four ABVP diplomates in canine/feline practice and provides an accelerated pathway to board certification in canine/feline practice through the American Board of Veterinary Practitioners. Significant mentorship in managing medical cases, dentistry and surgery is offered within Community Practice as well as the opportunity to rotate through other specialty services within the teaching hospital. Community Practice provides primary care to anyone who lives within 35 miles of the Veterinary Teaching Hospital and has a diverse caseload.

1 year of practice experience or a rotating internship is required. Candidates should have a significant interest in veterinary general practice and a desire to obtain board certification in canine/feline practice through ABVP.

For additional information or to apply for the position, please contact Jenny Marin, DVM, DABVP (canine/feline) at jmarin@vt.edu. Applications will be accepted until March 1, 2025, or until the position is filled.
